

VETFLASH!

Dear Member,

As the Covid-19 pandemic spreads new data becomes available. We believe it is our duty to inform you of this. We must, however, request you to maintain caution as research on the virus in the animal environment is in its infancy. We appreciate that the media aims to sensationalize and we believe that sourcing credible information is critical to avoid societal panic. Please refer to the attached document.

To re-iterate: Kindly note that we expose our members to research that is, in most instances, not finalised. We do so in the interest of trying to ensure that you have the most recent information at your disposal. Due care must be taken to continue updating yourself on new research as it becomes available.

Best regards,
Gert Steyn
Managing Director
